Theme

Empty, Clean, and Dry

Recycling is the process of collecting and processing materials that would otherwise be thrown away as trash and turning them into new products. Recycling benefits your community and the environment.

For recycling to be effective, it must be done properly. Any recyclable placed in your recycling bin should be:

1. Empty: the item has been emptied of all its contents.
2. Clean: the item has been quickly rinsed if needed.
3. Dry: the item has had time to dry before being placed in the recycling bin.

While all bottles, cans and containers should be clean, dry and free of most food waste before you place them in your recycling container, they don't need to be spotless. The goal is to make sure they are clean enough to avoid contaminating other materials, like paper and cardboard. Try using a spatula to scrape cans and jars, and putting recyclables in your sink among the dishes you are rinsing to share that same water to rinse and remove residue (wm.com).

Did you know, if contamination is found in a recycling bin, the whole bin has to be discarded in the landfill? Not only does the material go to waste, but all of your hard work to separate the material and all of the hard work of your providers to pick up and sort the material have gone to waste too. These three simple rules will help keep materials in the reuse cycle and out of the landfill.
